PRISON MISSIONARY REPEATS RECORD OF HIS CAREER

"Lucky Baldwin" Holds Audience Spell-bound as He Recounts Adventures in Bowery Argot

TOOK SEVENTEEN TO MAKE ARREST

Series of Battles With Police All Over Country Told By Mission Superintendent

"There's a lot o' deacons that don't deak."

"Lucky Baldwin" told his story last night.

A crowd that jammed the First Presbyterian church hung breathless on the Bowery argot, "Lucky Baldwin's" native idiom, in which the story was told of the savage beast of the city jungles who was turned to the "prison gate missionary" in Jerry McAuley's little mission on the lower East side of New York.

Dewey President DeForest C. Dewey, for six years superintendent of the La Crosse Rescue Mission, was again elected president of the Northwestern district of Union Gospel missions in the business session of the convention held this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church.

"Lucky's" voice grew tender whenever he spoke of the mission in New York where he was converted. He pleaded for the rescue mission. He asked for co-operation—for understanding between the mission and the church—and maintained that both had their place but that the rescue mission held a niche which the church could never fill.

This is "Lucky Baldwin's" story: "Seven years ago I couldn't read my own name. I couldn't read a line nor write a line. Now I can take notes on the biggest address given by the biggest professor in the country. But I went through a college once. And you ought to have seen me when I came out—I just wish you could've seen me. I had on the professor's long coat and his high silk hat, and I wish't you could 'a' seen me goin' down the main drag of that town.

"There's many a feller what walks in church and thinks he is all ready for Heaven. He's fooled himself. He ain't. Could a feller walk into a stable and call himself a horse? Could he? I ask you! Could he walk into a garage and call himself a chuffer?"

"Say fellers—we've got whiskey in Chicago that would make a rabbit sit up on his hind legs and spit in a bulldog's face. That's so. It'd even make a feller kiss his mother-in-law."

"Honest people—if you don't believe there is a hell—just drop a letter to Bob Ingersoll, but be sure you put an asbestos stamp on it. See if you get an answer."

"I know of churches that teach young boys to shoot pool. They're sendin' 'em to hell—sendin' 'em to hell fast. One hundred boys are lying in Cook county jail now. They played pool."

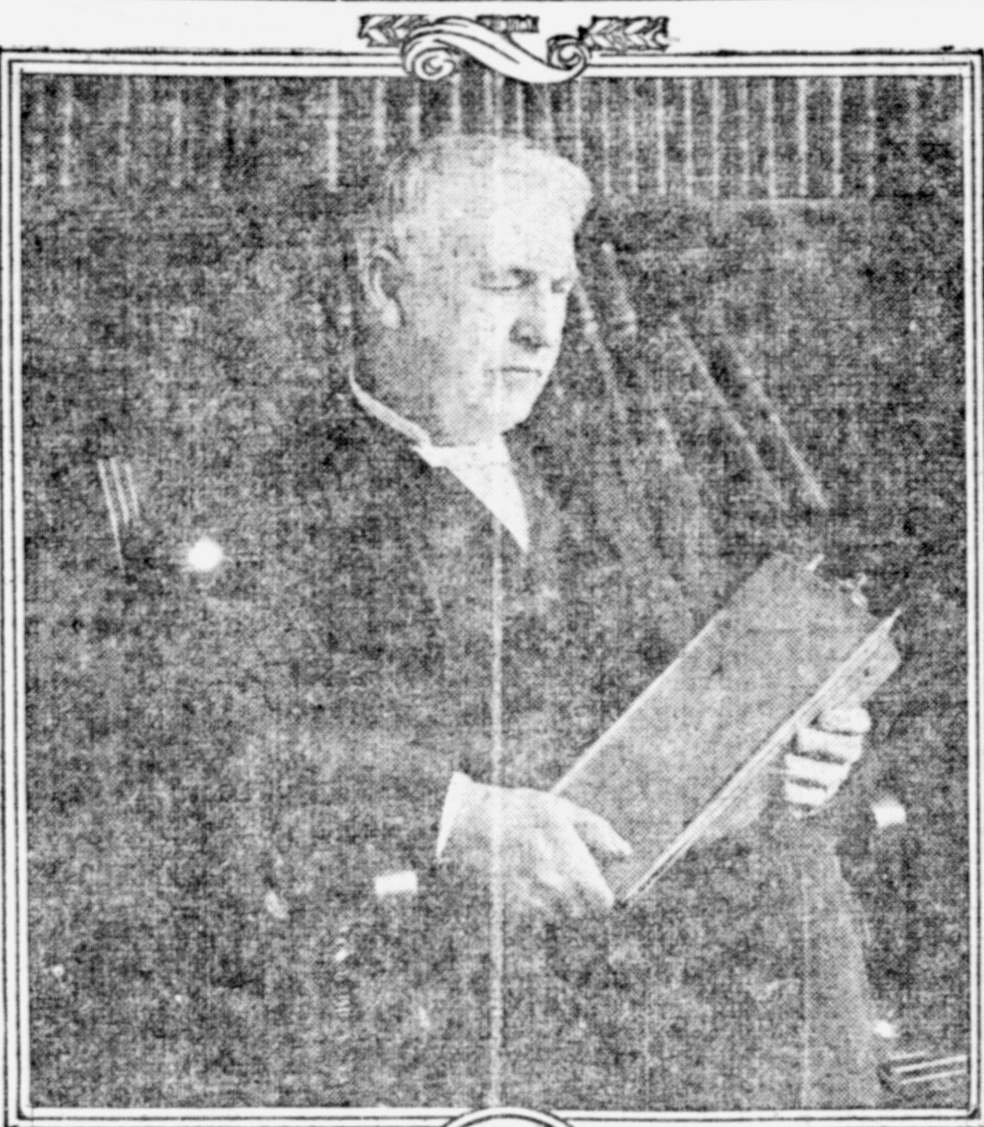

"Stay by me now and I'll tell you my story."

"I was arrested once for robbin' a train. They got me in Sacramento. Seventeen men got me, and it took 'em all—every last one of 'em to do the trick. They chained me to a seat in a railroad coach. Put the shackles on me—handcuffed my arms and chained me besides. They had a case of red-eye whiskey amongst 'em."

Nabs Sheriff's Gun

"My God, what thoughts went through my nut. 'If I could only get to one of those guns.' They all had one, some of them had two and the weaker of the dicks had three reds decoratin' their carcasses. But I didn't. Ten thousand people—one of the angriest mobs ever gathered in the city of 'Frisco—waited at the ferry that was to bring me from Oakland. They had to wait for hours until they could take me across the bay. Imagine my thoughts. Then they marched me down the street, fifty deputy sheriffs on both

SAN FRANCISCO DOES HONOR TO THE "WIZARD OF ELECTRICITY"

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19.—Thomas A. Edison "did" the Panama-Pacific exposition today flanked by two other immortals—Luther Burbank and Henry Ford. Officially the principal honors went to Edison, for whom tonight every electric light in San Francisco skyscrapers and in the big buildings of the Bay Cities will blaze providing a radiance eclipsing anything ever seen on the Pacific coast.

On one downtown building here a huge electrical sign will welcome Edison in the dot and dash telegraphic language he has used since he became deaf. At the banquet in Edison's honor given tonight by four hundred telegraphers, the famous inventor will tick off his after dinner speech on a telegraph instrument connected with every table by wires strung on miniature poles.

The menu will be made out in the telegraphic code. Edison said he likes his phonograph best of all his numerous inventions, although he said he knew his electric light and electric power transmission probably were the most beneficial to the human race. He declared himself "tickled" to meet Burbank and said he would rather have met the plant wizard here than anybody.

REAL "WILD WEST" DRAMA PULLED OFF BY TRAIN BANDITS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Revolvers flashed, eyes peered through black masks, commands of "hands up" rang out and a West Shore freight train was held up and robbed in true wild west fashion early today only "forty-five minutes from Broadway."

But for the quick thinking of the engineer of an express train which was following the freight, a large sum in cash, jewelry and other valuables might have been taken by the bandits, who endeavored to make a double haul. The express is reported to have been carrying a large sum of money from the sub-treasury and authorities believe the bandits thought they were stopping this train when the freight was held up near Haverstraw and one of the cars looted.

There were six men in the hold-up party, according to the best available reports. They had an automobile secluded near where the train was stopped and after being frustrated in their attempt to rob the express, leaped into the machine and sped away.

Posses were organized in all surrounding towns by daybreak. New York detectives guarded every ferry and railroad station in Manhattan, but several hours after the hold-up no trace had been found of the robbers.

The value of the loot taken by the bandits from the freight car was not known up to noon today. The train crew was forced to open one of the cars when the business ends of revolvers were thrust into their faces. Several packages in the car were broken open and thrown to the ground, but officials of the West Shore said the value of the loot could not be determined until the contents of the car were checked up.

The freight train was stopped by a red danger signal which was thrown into operation when the bandits cut an electric signal wire. After the train stopped, the robbers leaped from their automobile and covered the engineer and fireman, forcing them to hold the freight while other members of the crew opened a car. After numerous packages had been thrown out, the train was allowed to proceed.

Fifteen minutes later the express came along. Seeing the red signal, Engineer Nolan slowed down. Then he caught sight of the bandits on the track ahead. Nolan threw his throttle wide open. The express dashed by, but one of the robbers grasped the hand grip on the tender. After the train stopped, the robbers Nolan grabbed a shovel, hit him across the knuckles and when the bandit let go and dropped to the ground, the train sped out of danger.

DEFENSE PROGRAM TO CAUSE SWELL IN "WAR" BUDGET

It Is Proposed to Increase Appropriations Yearly for the Next Six Years

BOTH ARMS TO BE BENEFITED

Navy Will Receive More of Budget Than Will the Army It Is Understood

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—An annual "war" budget of from $360,000,000 to $400,000,000 is the plan involved in the administration's national defense program. According to figures available today, it is proposed for the next six years, at least, to increase appropriations from about $225,000,000 by from $145,000,000 to $175,000,000 annually. The differing number of new dreadnaughts authorized each year will cause the fluctuation.

Officials were today discussing whether a permanent change in federal revenues would be necessary to meet the enormous defense expenditures proposed. President Wilson is expected not only to outline the program at an initial "national defense" speech in New York, November 4, but also to suggest the plans for raising necessary revenues.

Annual expenditures planned for the army range from $155,000,000 to $175,000,000 annually after next year's expenditures of $184,000,000. This year they were $110,000,000. The navy budget for the next six years is expected to range from $205,000,000 to $225,000,000.

Upkeep to Cost Much Permanent up-keep of the increased fleet and army, officials admitted today, will cause the tremendous increase in the annual "service" budgets. Secretary Daniels plans to spend $600,000,000 for new ships alone during the next six years. Secretary Garrison plans to spend $105,000,000 for arms and ammunition and $81,000,000 on fortifications during the next four years.

For maintenance of the new "continental," or citizen soldier volunteer army of 400,000 regulars and 400,000 reserves and the increased regular army of 140,000 in active service, it is estimated the annual increase will be $25,000,000.

Increase Number of Officers Increase of 1,000 in the number of army officers, to be drawn from the state guard largely, will also cost another extra half million dollars annually.

Maintenance of a much larger fleet on the Pacific coast within two years, it was learned today, is planned by Secretary Daniels. Continued operation of the Panama canal is the principal factor in his proposals for a Pacific fleet. The Atlantic fleet will be given frequent cruises to the Pacific and, when dry docked and repair facilities at the Pacific coast yards are permanently enlarged, it is proposed to divide the fighting forces to keep a fleet of strong size in Pacific waters.

With the awards yesterday of contracts for sixteen new submarines and six torpedo boat destroyers, in two years the effect of that increase will be shown.

Bids will be taken November 17 at the navy department for two new battle ships authorized by the last congress, which will be completed in 1918.

WILSON CASTS VOTE FOR WOMEN IN NEW JERSEY ELECTION

Executive Enters Little Booth Near Princeton Campus and Declares for Suffrage

CLOSE VOTE IS PREDICTED

Suffragists Close Whirlwind Campaign but Few Hours Before Polls Are Opened

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—This is the order in which states of the union have granted suffrage to women:

Wyoming—1869.
Colorado—1893.
Idaho—1896.
Utah—1896.
Washington—1910.
California—1911.
Arizona—1912.
Kansas—1912.
Oregon—1912.
Illinois (partial suffrage)—1913.
Montana—1914.
Nevada—1914.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 19.—President Wilson added one to the vote for suffrage in New Jersey when he cast his ballot in the little fire house booth below the Princeton campus at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

It was the first time in history that the executive of a world nation has taken his stand for the new and broader sphere of women. Yet the event was almost unnoticed. The leading advocate of suffrage came home through Pennsylvania and New Jersey without seeing a yellow and white banner or hearing a cheer for the "Votes for Women" cause until he reached Princeton. Here two or three fine looking women wearing yellow badges danced in excitement as the president came down the steps of his car. It was the only sign along the way that New Jersey was voting.

Even a small boy driving a delivery wagon, who was halted as he was about to drive over the president, did not know what was happening.

"Eh, wot's this, a funeral?" he inquired, and even the president joined in the laugh.

The president himself did not want to make his voting anything unusual. When the photographers asked him to pose as he came from the booth, he refused.

In the crowd the executive found many friends whom he greeted and all the way to the booth he halted to meet others, many of them women.

After a short walk about the campus, the president returned to his car, which immediately started back for Washington.

Campaign Vigorous

Conservative judges say the election is going to be close. Suffragists say they will win by 25,000. Antis declare the measure will be defeated by a "large majority."

All night suffragists carried the battle to the voters. From a huge van in Newark, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Mrs. John Winters Brannan and Mrs. John Rogers, Jr., worked in relays and when dawn slipped in from the east, the speeches were still going on and the crowd still surging around the wagon.

The finish was a whirlwind of eleventh hour appeals. Suffrage leaders said today that 400 speakers all over the state were advocating suffrage in meetings that lasted far into the night. It was a twenty-four hour continuous talking finish.

More gallantry and courtesy was probably in evidence about the polling booths today than ever before in the history of a New Jersey election. The reason for the new atmosphere was the presence of suffrage "watchers."

Fraud Is Charged

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 19.—Charges that wholesale frauds were being perpetrated and that crowds of "repeaters" were being shoved through the polls in Jersey's suffrage election were made this afternoon by Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, field marshal for the Suffrage forces.

GUATEMALA SHOWS SIGNS OF UNREST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Guatemala is today on the verge of another revolution. Information in possession of the state department confirmed reports of increased revolutionary activities against President Estrada Cabrera and of juntas in this country.

Guatemala and Mexico are being flooded with revolutionary anti-Cabrera literature. The Guatemalan-Mexican border is seething with revolutionists.

Danger of Carranza becoming involved in the Guatemalan situation was admitted today by state department officials to be serious.

CITY DADS PREPARE APPETITES FOR THE SAUERKRAUT PICNIC

This being the open season on the fragrant sauerkraut, city officials and aldermen were today looking forward with anticipation to the occasion which with the single exception of payday is more enthusiastically welcomed than any other on the municipal calendar—the annual Sauerkraut picnic.

Present plans are to assemble the municipal kraut-eaters next Sunday at the G. F. Dollert cottage at Eagle Bluff. Frank Kohn, of the Second ward, it is understood will be cook.

The Sauerkraut picnic is an institution that dates back to immemorial antiquity. Even City Treasurer George Young can't remember when it was started. It is an exclusive affair, unlike the annual city picnic, to which friends and prominent politicians not holding down official jobs are always invited.

ILLINOIS BOX-CAR IN TRAIN BLOCKS MOVE TO NON-SUIT

Judge Sanborn Rules Southeastern Train on Which Sestak Was Injured Was in Interstate Trade

SAVES $50,000 INJURY SUIT

Attorneys Sought to Have Case Thrown Out of Federal Court Jurisdiction

Presence of an empty box car from Illinois in the freight train which injured Carl Sestak caused Judge A. L. Sanborn to over-rule a motion to non-suit Sestak's $50,000 personal injury suit against the Southeastern railroad in federal court this morning. The motion was made by attorneys for the railroad after evidence in the case had been concluded.

In Interstate Commerce

Judge Sanborn's ruling was that because the Illinois box car was in the train the freight was legally engaged in interstate commerce. The defense has claimed that the train was engaged only in intra-state business because none of the shipments it carried were consigned out of Wisconsin or came from points within the state. The railroad's counsel sought to have the case thrown out of the federal court.

A jury empaneled in the case yesterday morning listened to testimony of the plaintiff. When court was resumed this morning, Attorneys Douglas, Kennedy and Kennedy of St. Paul, and Baldwin and Bosshard of La Crosse rested their case and the jury were excused while the defense argued the motion to non-suit.

Judge and Jury Take Trip

Judge Sanborn and the jury in the case had an outing this afternoon. At the invitation of Attorney George H. Gordon, chief of the railroad's counsel, they boarded the Southeastern afternoon train for Stoddard, to examine the platform where Sestak was injured. The case is expected to go to the jury late today.

Due to the opening of circuit court at Viroqua today, Clerk Alfred Harrison was forced to leave the city. Clerk Major F. W. Oakley took his place in the court room.

EFFECTIVE EMBARGO EXPECTED

Shipment of Arms to Rebel Clans Will Be Effectuated in Short Time Is Understood

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Mexico today re-entered the family of nations. After nearly three years of civil warfare and revolution, a new government was given birth, headed by Venustiano Carranza as "chief executive of the de facto government,"—the title agreed on.

Sending of a note by Secretary of State Lansing to Eliseo Arredondo, Carranza's representative here, was the formal step. Similar notes were

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Secretary Lansing's note to Arredondo, formally recognizing the Carranza regime was as follows:

"I take pleasure in informing you that the government of the United States recognizes the de facto government of Mexico, of General Venustiano Carranza as chief executive, and the government of the United States is prepared to receive a diplomatic representative from the de facto government of Mexico and as soon as possible will send a diplomatic representative from the United States."

sent Arredondo, who is Carranza's cousin and slated to be his foreign minister or first United States ambassador, by all Latin-American governments of the Pan-American conference.

Arredondo was also requested to inform Carranza.

He conferred today with Secretary Lansing. The embargo on arms which President Wilson will soon proclaim, it was officially announced will be a general embargo against all importation of arms to Mexico, but will make exception of the Carranza government. Resumption of Red Cross famine and other relief work is expected soon.

The title of president, provisional or ad interim, will be either assumed by Carranza himself or conferred by the Mexican congress, which Carranza proposes to convene shortly. Embargo Proclamation Expected Within the next forty-eight hours President Wilson is expected to issue a new embargo proclamation, under authority of congress enacted in 1912, to prevent Villa and other anti-Carranza factions now officially classed as "rebels" from receiving munitions.

Arredondo plans to leave here before the week-end to convey personally the notes of the United States and Latin-American countries recognizing the first chief.

The state department today advised all consuls in Mexico and American diplomats abroad of Carranza's recognition.

To Call Elections?

Carranza is expected in a short time to issue a call for municipal elections in the territory he controls in order that civil government may be organized. These elections are expected to be held in December. In January he is expected to call for elections to the Mexican congress, which would assemble in the spring and arrange for the holding of the presidential election in June, the man elected to take office in the fall. Carranza cannot become a candidate at this election.

FIVE DOLLARS IN PENNIES IS LOOT OF BANGOR YEGGS

Burglars Enter Bangor Saloon and Are Scared Away by Persons Who See Light in the Place

BANGOR, Wis., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Five dollars in pennies, two boxes of cigars and a few bottles of brandy was the loot of burglars who entered the saloon of Wilke Brothers late Friday night. The yeggs cut a hole in the glass window of the side door, and mutilated a penny loan machine. They were frightened away by persons who saw a light in the place and investigated, thinking it was one of the proprietors. The men ran.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

JANE'S RE-DISCOVERY

BY CATHARINE CRAIMER

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

If Jane Wilson's married sister had not come home for a visit just at the time Leonard Mills was leaving Springfield to take up practice with a leading law firm in Chicago there is every probability that Leonard would have become engaged to Leonard before he left. A proposal had been on the end of Leonard's tongue more than once, as Jane well knew, but until he had prospects more encouraging than his scattering civil cases in the circuit court gave him it wasn't exactly prudent to become engaged. While prudence is not always the guiding influence in the timing of engagements, it had to play its part in this case, for Jane had a snug little income of her own and Leonard's last penny had gone for his legal education.

The day before Leonard got the offer from the Chicago Law firm Jane's married sister came home, and as she opened her traveling bag, she threw a new magazine over on the bed. The cover attracted Jane, and while her sister took a nap Jane took the magazine out in the yard by the lilac bushes and, turning idly through it, she noticed a story entitled, "Propinquity and Perspective."

The title sounded almost as heavy to Jane as some of the legal terms Leonard sometimes let slip in his conversation. She frowned as she began to read, but gradually she became fascinated as she found it to be the story of a girl who had thought herself in love with her boyhood sweetheart until she lived for a time away from him among men of the world. When she returned, with many new interests in life, she found that her boyhood sweetheart was still interested only in the local happenings. He listened with only a moderate patience and no interest to her enthusiastic accounts of the phases of life she had glimpsed while in the city, where her aunt's home was a center for people who were "doing things" in various professions. As the title of the story suggested, perspective revealed so much about her sweetheart that propinquity had concealed that the girl shrank from him and accepted with eagerness her aunt's invitation to return to the city to make her permanent home.

Jane discovered that the story was in two parts, and to be concluded in the next issue of the magazine, but part one had set her thinking in a direction that led to her refusal to enter into an agreement with Leonard Mills when he called for that specific purpose the night before he left for Chicago.

"But Jane," protested Leonard, "it's been tentatively understood all along that we'd marry some day."

"And, Leonard, that is the very reason why neither of us has got far enough away from the idea to see whether it really appeals to us from choice or just from habit. We've been set aside for each other by our families and our friends until it all seems a matter of course that we should marry." Jane looked straight ahead of her at an old engraving of a pair of lovers in its quaint gilt frame on the wall.

"Jane, is there somebody else?" asked Leonard.

"No, Leonard; but neither you nor I know enough of others to know whether we really want to marry each other."

"I don't have to know others to know that I want to marry you. Why Jane, it isn't like you to be talking like this. Don't you love me the least little bit?"

"I like you sincerely, Leonard, but whether I love you is I ought to love the man I promise to marry. I frankly do not know. You are going into a life entirely different from what you've known," she continued. "Your ideas will change and you yourself will unconsciously change. If I remain here I shall not change, and you might find me very uninteresting from your broadened viewpoint when you return in later years. Your sense of chivalry wouldn't tell me to tell me so, and it would mean misery for both of us eventually when we had time to see the mistake we had made."

"Don't talk nonsense, dear; that could never happen," pleaded Leonard.

"Oh, yet it could, but it won't, because I'm going away also, where I'll get a new outlook on life, and then when we meet on a plane where we can get a perspective of each other we'll know whether we really look good to each other." The slangy termination of Jane's high-flown speech was accompanied by a nervous little laugh.

"Where on earth are you going, Jane?"

"I'm going to New York to study artistic designing and decorating."

"Sounds vague to me," said Leonard. "Why can't you learn that sort of thing in Chicago?"

"Oh, I'm going to New York to be properly chaperoned by Aunt Amy; she has a charming studio there, and gets big contracts for furnishing and decorating suites and whole houses, and she has loads of interesting friends."

"Well, I've nothing to offer you to take the place of all that; but there seems little left for me to work for now. I'd hoped you would spend the next year making plans for your own home with me, but—" Leonard's voice broke.

"Dear Len, please don't feel that I'm trying to hurt you; it's as much for your sake as my own. Besides, not having the impending burden of a wife will make it easier for you to give your whole mind to your professional work the first years."

"Years? How long is this notion of yours going to keep us apart, I'd like to know?" Leonard was not yet convinced of the wisdom of the plan, but all his arguments failed to shake Jane's faith in it, and so they said good-by as friends only.

Jane was taking a final survey of the apartment she had decorated and furnished for Mrs. Delafield, who had left the selection of materials and colors so largely to her that the result was the most satisfactory of the many similar apartments she had decorated during her two years with her Aunt Amy.

Outside it was a drizzly November day, but within the apartment there were color and comfort and cheeriness. Jane dropped down in a tapestried armchair by the living room window which overlooked the Hudson. As she looked about the cozy, home-like room, she sighed heavily as she thought she must leave it all now and see it no more. She felt homesick for just such a home of her own. As the rain trickled down the window glass a tear trickled down Jane's cheek.

Then her mind went back to the old home in Springfield, where she had been but twice since she took up her busy life in New York. The last time was to her brother's wedding, a year ago. She could imagine them all as they would be at this hour—her mother sitting by the wood fire, her brother's wife crooning a song to the wee baby, and watching the clock for the time when her husband would hurry home from his noisy flouring mill to the quiet fire.

HOW TO PREVENT ACID STOMACHS AND FOOD FERMENTATION

By a Stomach Specialist

As a specialist who has spent many years in the study and treatment of stomach troubles, I have been forced to the conclusion that most people who complain of stomach trouble possess stomachs that are absolutely healthy and normal. The real trouble, that which causes all the pain and difficulty, is excessive acid in the stomach, aggravated by food fermentation. Hyper-acidity irritates the delicate lining of the stomach and food fermentation causes wind which distends the stomach abnormally, causing that full bloated feeling. Thus both acid and fermentation interfere with and retard the process of digestion. The stomach is usually healthy and normal, but irritated almost past endurance by these foreign elements—acid and wind. In all such cases—and they comprise over 90 per cent of all stomach difficulties—the first and only step necessary is to neutralize the acid and stop the fermentation by taking in a little warm or cold water immediately after eating, from one to two teaspoonfuls of bisurated magnesia, which is doubtless the best and only really effective antacid and food corrective known. The acid will be neutralized and the fermentation stopped almost instantly, and your stomach will at once proceed to digest the food in a healthy, normal manner. Be sure to ask O. T. Erhart and all druggists for the bisurated magnesia, as I have found other forms utterly lacking in its peculiarly valuable properties.—F. J. G.

side. Jane thought also of Leonard Mills, who was reported doing wonders professionally, but whose occasional letters to her gave scant personal history. Through the villagers she had heard when at home last that he had received a considerable legacy from an aunt, who died in California. The sound of Mrs. Delafield's voice coming out of the elevator broke Jane's reverie.

"It's a regular dream, I tell you; and isn't it just the worst luck that we can't enjoy it after all?" she was saying. "But if you want to send that telegram you'd better go back down to the office, for my telephone is not in, and it will be an hour before I'm ready to go. I've ordered tea sent up from the cafe. Come on up when you're ready."

She came on into the living room as she concluded the last remark over her shoulder, and Jane heard a faint response in a man's voice as she rose to greet her patron.

"I could hardly resist making believe it was all mine," said Jane smilingly as she waved her hands to indicate the cozy apartment.

"And I can hardly resist tears when I think it can't be mine after all. The doctors have ordered my husband to southern California and we're going to start next week."

"Oh, I'm so sorry you must go, and so sorry your husband hasn't improved."

"It is because he refused to go when the doctors advised it; now they order it." After a walk through the apartment Mrs. Delafield returned to the living room. "I was just telling my cousin, who is located in New York," she added, "that he would have to find a wife and take this apartment off my hands. Here he is now. Come in, Jim. Miss Mills, let me present my cousin, Mr. Mills."

The words were the only things commonplace about the introduction. Mrs. Delafield stood astonished as Leonard grabbed both of Jane's hands and Jane looked pleased to have him do so. She read enough between the lines of their partial explanation to think it advisable to leave them alone. So she went for a final look at the tiled kitchen and bath, whose perfect equipment had been her especial pride. When she returned, only fifteen minutes later, Leonard led Jane to her, and with a sweeping bow, presented her as the future Mrs. Mills. A flash of pleased surprise passed over Mrs. Delafield's face.

"Oh, then you will take the apartment, won't you?" she exclaimed.

And they took it immediately.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequaled

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that sets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it.

Get 2 1/2 ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the cough thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, winter coughs and bronchial asthma.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time—at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quaiacol, and is famous for its use, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.

Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. Goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

WE KICK ON THE MIGRATORY BIRD LAW

Law is law and, for that matter, hell is hell, which in the case of the migratory bird statutes come to the same thing.

This law "to protect game birds during migration" might as fittingly be described as "a law prohibiting duck shooting in the Mississippi water courses."

On pain of extortionate fines one must not shoot any winged thing on the Mississippi river or its adjacent bayous, swamps and lowlands, before sunrise and after sunset. Sunday, October 17, for example, this meant no shooting before 6:22 a. m. nor after 5:18 p. m. Every hunter knows that the morning shooting is practically over at 6 a. m. and that the evening shooting does not begin until 5 p. m. One may as well face the camera—we, of the Mississippi valley, are barred.

The importance of protecting game birds during their migrations is the excuse offered for the law. It seems thin. Why protect them from us in migration in order that they may be slaughtered by others when their flight ends? In this section we have no home ducks. Our only wild ducks are those who migrate through these valleys. It is no more just to forbid our sport by saying we must not shoot migratory birds during hours when shooting is possible than would it be to say to the people of places where ducks season that they may shoot only ducks in the act of migration.

Having carefully studied the law and the reasons advanced for its passage, we reject the reasoning as faulty and protest against the law as most unjust. The edict that we must give up our shooting to the people of the Dominion of Canada and the southern confederacy we like worth a cent and we confess a seditious frame of mind. A thing so unreasonable as this statute must have holes through which a constitutional lawyer could throw a fit, and we're ready to pass the hat in support of a test case.

THE QUALITY OF COURAGE

No one can listen to the "testimonies" of the mission superintendents who are in convention here now without carrying away an abiding impression of sincerity. The spiritual elevation of these men who have been lifted from the depths speaks in homely idiom that rings true. They are fighters, to a man; stout drill-sergeants of unquestioning faith in their general. They have the quality of courage.

Most of us are glad to paste down the leaf when once it is turned. It is an uncommon heroism that these men possess who bravely turn back the page and expose its bitter contents "for the glory of God."

Says "Lucky Baldwin": "It ain't nice to open wounds and put salt in 'em after they're long closed." It is not nice. But it is sublime.

INDELICATE, EVEN RUDE

A week-end at Andy Thompson's houseboat at Spring Slough completely wrecks the popular illusion that Henry Ford invented the most useful thing in the world. The little tin gods would have it so, but Andy knows that even this rattling good car plays second xylophone to the industrious Evinrude. What with fetching wood and water, conveying the pike squad, landing the hunters, ferrying the shoppers and bringing everything that everybody forgets, the minimum put-put-put convinces one that while an Evinrude might do without a universe, a universe without an Evinrude would be a futile thing. Yes, dear, in the group of indispensable we place the Evinrude above the Ford motor and almost abreast of the late Old Dobbin and the buckboard.

JUST BUSINESS

The Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power company, having duly sold enough bonds to be on the plus side of the transaction, has worked out the problem of its heating system to some sort of solution in which public concern will be divided between "B. T. U.'s" and "overhead."

"But no matter if the fellow be a knave—Provided that the razors shave."

We'll be so cozy this winter that we may feel like being fair—even to a public service corporation. And this brings us to the point.

The W.-M. L. & P. Co. says it can furnish power to run the water plant at a saving to the city. If it can do so at a saving, or at an even break, should the deal not be made? The company legally is entitled to earn, at a set rate, an amount equal to a certain definite percentage upon its investment. Eventually it will find a way to realize this earning, if not with the water plant revenues included, without them and thus completely from private light and power revenues. Therefore, in the end, private citizens will be saved every dollar the city may pay for operating the water plant.

If the company can "show" the city authorities, in all common sense the deal should be made.

Embarrassing Title

"You've made a mistake in your paper," said an indignant man, entering the editorial sanctum of a daily paper. "I was one of the competitors at that athletic match yesterday, and you have called me 'the well known lightweight champion.'"

"Well, aren't you?" inquired the editor, according to the National Monthly.

"No, I'm nothing of the kind, and it's confoundingly awkward, because I'm a coal merchant!"

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Morning Song
Morning at your window smiles;
She has crossed the world for miles,
Just to look at you—
Brought you all her dew,
Waits, her arms with roses laden,
Just to look upon you, maiden—
Oh, your eyes are blue!

Far across the eastern sky,
When the stars begin to die,
For your lovely sake
Softly did she take
Shoes of pearl and came tiptoeing,
Noiseless as a lily blowing—
Just to see you wake!
—Richard Le Gallienne in Munsey.

Needed More Room

During the run of a play in New York last winter a wobbly person teetered up to the box office one Saturday night when the place was packed and demanded a good seat.

"Nothing left except standing room," said the box office man. "Sell you standing room for a dollar."

The wavering one produced a dollar and went inside. But so many general admissions were grouped at the rear that, over the intervening hedge of heads, he caught only vagrant glimpses of what was going on upon the stage.

He foggly considered the situation for a spell. Then he rocked his weeping way back to the box office window and put a second dollar on the shelf.

"Gimme nozzir one of them stand-in' rooms," he ordered; "can't see the show at all if you only got one."—Saturday Evening Post.

Paid in His Own Coin

In the days of the country inn and when traveling overland was done on horseback or in carriages, the eccentric John Randolph of Roanoke was passing over a road that was new to him. He stopped at an inn for dinner. The meal being over, the driver hitched his team and was ready to resume the journey, when the innkeeper, doubtless with the best intentions, inquired of Randolph where he was going.

"I've paid my bill, and it's none of your business," gruffly answered the traveler.

About half a mile from the inn Randolph found that the road fork-

TEN WEEKS IN BED—EMINENT PHYSICIANS FAILED—WONDERFUL RECOVERY

I wish to inform you of the great benefit I have derived from the use of Swamp-Root. I had been a sufferer for more than twenty years from kidney and liver trouble and was almost constantly treated by the most eminent physicians who could only give me temporary relief. I had been in bed ten weeks when I began the use of Swamp-Root. Inside of twenty-four hours I could see that I had been greatly benefited. I continued to use Swamp-Root until I really felt that my old trouble was completely cured and I am positive that any person suffering with kidney or liver trouble can be cured by the use of this preparation.

I am now in the best of health, better than I have been for ten years or more. I do not know how to express myself as strongly as I desire, in favor of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, as I am sure that it saved my life and that my good health is due entirely to this great remedy. I heartily recommend it to every sufferer and am confident they can be benefited as I have been. It is a pleasure for me, gentlemen, to hand you this recommendation.

MRS. H. J. PRICE,

A Cyclone Yarn

"A cyclone is not such a bad thing after all," remarked the portly salesman as he settled himself comfortably in his chair. "One saved $5 for me once."

"How did it happen?" asked a listener.

"I was in a little town out in Kansas about two years ago and wanted to get to another small town, 15 miles distant. There was no railroad between the two points, and I was standing in front of the lively stable arguing with the liverman, who wanted $5 to take me and my sample cases over, when a cyclone came along and, picking me up, landed me right in the little town to which I wanted to go."

"Eh—how about your sample cases?" faltered an awed listener.

"Oh," suavely replied the salesman, the cyclone landed them just ahead of me and had my goods all spread out on display when I got there."

Her One Request

A young man saying goodby to his sweetheart was leaning on the garden gate.

"I'm going to ask you a favor," the girl said, hesitatingly.

"It is already granted," he answered.

"A very great favor," she repeated, as if doubtful of the propriety of saying what it was. "You're sure that you won't think it presumptuous or forward of me?"

"Never," he assured her. "Only tell me what I can do for you."

"Well," she replied, "would you mind not leaning on the gate? Father painted it this afternoon, and he will be awfully provoked if he has to paint it again."—Chicago Herald.

Lap of Luxury

Ruth Chatterton, the actress, shows us that a wee child can sometimes guess right the very first time.

"What is meant by the lap of luxury?" asked a teacher of a class of little girls.

"Please, ma'am, I know," exclaimed the smallest of the lot, holding up her hand.

"Well, what is it, dear?" inquired the teacher kindly.

"It's when the cat steals into the larder and licks the cream off the milk," responded the little one.

And the teacher, on reflection, wasn't quite sure that her pupil was wrong.—Youth's Companion.

KAZAN

By James Oliver Curwood

Author of The Danger Trail, The Honor of The Big Snows, Philip Steele, Etc.

Copyright 1914, The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

That night the big white moon had around its edge a crimson rim. It meant cold—intense cold. Always the plague came in the days of greatest cold—the lower the temperature the more terrible its havoc. It grew steadily colder that night, and the increased chill penetrated to the heart of the windfall, and drew Kazan and Gray Wolf closer together. With dawn, which came at about eight o'clock, Kazan and his blind mate sallied forth into the day. It was fifty degrees below zero. About them the trees cracked with reports like pistol-shots. In the thickest spruce the partridges were humped into round balls of feathers. The snow-shoe rabbits had burrowed deep under the snow or to the heart of the heaviest windfalls. Kazan and Gray Wolf found few fresh trails, and after an hour of fruitless hunting they returned to their lair. Kazan, dog-like, had buried the half of a rabbit two or three days before, and they dug this out of the snow and ate the frozen flesh.

All that day it grew colder—steadily colder. The night that followed was cloudless, with a white moon and brilliant stars. The temperature had fallen another ten degrees, and nothing was moving. Traps were never sprung on such nights, for even the furred things—the mink, and the ermine, and the lynx—lay snug in the holes and the nests they had found for themselves. An increasing hunger was not strong enough to drive Kazan and Gray Wolf from their windfall. The next day there was no break in the terrible cold, and toward noon Kazan set out on a hunt for meat, leaving Gray Wolf in the windfall. Being three-quarters dog, food was more necessary to Kazan than to his mate. Nature had fitted the wolf-breed for famine, and in ordinary temperature Gray Wolf could have lived for a fortnight without food. At sixty degrees below zero she could exist a week, perhaps ten days. Only thirty hours had passed since they had devoured the last of the frozen rabbit, and she was quite satisfied to remain in their snug retreat.

But Kazan was hungry. He began to hunt in the face of the wind, traveling toward the burned plain. He nosed about every windfall that he came to, and investigated the thickets, and in this—from the windfall to the burn—he found but a single trail, and that was the trail of an ermine. Under a windfall he caught the warm scent of a rabbit, but the rabbit was safe from him there as were the partridges in the trees and after an hour of futile digging and gnawing he gave up his effort to reach it. For three hours he had hunted when he returned to Gray Wolf. He was exhausted. While Gray Wolf, with the instinct of the wild, had saved her own strength and energy, Kazan had been burning up his reserve forces, and was hungrier than ever.

The moon rose clear and brilliant in the sky again that night, and Kazan set out once more on the hunt. He urged Gray Wolf to accompany him, whining for her outside the windfall—returning for her twice—but Gray Wolf laid her ears a-slant and refused to move. The temperature had now fallen to sixty-five or seventy degrees below zero, and with it there came from the north an increasing wind, making the night one in which human life could not have existed for an hour. By midnight Kazan was back under the windfall. The wind grew stronger. It began to wail in mournful dirges over the swamp, and then it burst in fierce shrieking volleys, with intervals of quiet between. These were the first warnings from the great barrens that lay between the last lines of timber and the Arctic. With morning the storm burst in all its fury from out of the north, and Gray Wolf and Kazan lay close together and shivered as they listened to the roar of it over the windfall. Once Kazan thrust his head and shoulders out from the shelter of the fallen trees, but the storm drove him back. Everything that possessed life had sought shelter, according to its way and instinct. The furred creatures like the mink and the ermine were safest, for during the warmer hunting days they were of the kind that cached meat. The wolves and the foxes had sought out the windfalls and the rocks. Winged things, with the exception of the owls, who were a tenth body and nine-tenths feathers, burrowed under snow-drifts or found shelter in thick spruce. To the hooved and horned animals the storm meant greatest havoc. The deer, the caribou and the moose could not crawl under windfalls or creep between rocks. The best they could do was to lie down in the lee of a drift, and allow themselves to be covered deep with the protecting snow. Even then they could not keep their shelter long, for they had to eat. For eighteen hours out of the twenty-four the moose had to feed to keep himself alive during the winter. His big stomach demanded quantity, and it took him most of his time to nibble from the tops of bushes the two or three bushes he needed a day. The caribou required almost as much—the deer least of the three.

And the storm kept up that day, and the next, and still a third—three days and three nights—and the third day and night there came with it a stinging, shot-like snow that fell two feet deep on the level, and in drifts of eight and ten. It was the "heavy snow" of the Indians—the snow that lay like lead on the earth, and under which partridges and rabbits were smothered in thousands.

On the fourth day after the beginning of the storm Kazan and Gray Wolf issued forth from the windfall. There was no longer a wind—no more falling snow. The whole world lay under a blanket of unbroken white, and it was intensely cold.

The plague had worked its havoc with men. Now had come the days of famine and death for the wild things.

CHAPTER XIII. The Trail of Hunger.

Kazan and Gray Wolf had been a hundred and forty hours without food. To Gray Wolf this meant acute discomfort, a growing weakness. To Kazan it was starvation. Six days and six nights of fasting had drawn in their ribs and put deep hollows in front of their hindquarters. Kazan's eyes were red, and they narrowed to slits as he looked forth into the day.

LOCAL RAILROADERS ESCAPE IN WRECK

Bert Carleton and Fred Shumway Unhurt in Portage Derailment That Injures Enginemen

Bert Carleton, conductor, 705 State street, and Fred Shumway, 827 St. James street, brakeman on an extra eastbound freight train which climbed the rails at Portage early Monday morning, escaped uninjured, according to the reports of the wreck from Portage. Engineer Edward Donahue and Fireman Ollie Grunke, both of Portage, were seriously injured when the big locomotive left the rails as it entered the western end of the yards at 6:15 in the morning. Donahue received a deep cut on the left knee when he jumped from the cab, and Grunke fractured his right ankle. The local men were in the rear of the train when it left the track.

The engine, tender and the two first freight cars of the train left the rails. The engine plowed along the ties for a distance of about 60 feet after leaving the rails, and then turned half on its side and dug its pilot into the soft dirt.

The weight and speed of the rest of the train, owing to the slight down grade at the scene of the wreck, forced the tender and first freight car crosswise of the track in the rear of the overturned locomotive. The second car left the rails but was not seriously damaged. The first car contained a load of barley in the bulk, and was badly splintered up.

ELECTRIC CARS TO SCARE OFF 'BOES?

Believed Fear of Electrocutation Will Make Rocky Mountain Divisions Immune

The installation of the electric railway system on the Milwaukee railroad in the Rocky Mountain districts is practically complete with the transformation of the districts over which the mammoth engines are operated into a veritable network of wires. The road believes that with the installation of the electric system, they have not only solved a great economic problem of railroad-ing, but that the new system will eradicate the evil of hoboes beating their way on the passenger trains. It is believed that the fear of electrocution will prevent the hoboes from taking chances by riding the blinds or on top of the trains operated by electricity.

BERGH WINDOW ATTRACTS ATTENTION ENTERED IN EDISON WEEK CONTEST

A great deal of attention has been attracted by the Bergh Piano company's Edison diamond disc window display which is entered in the big $7,500 prize contest that is being conducted this week by the Edison Disc Jobbers' association. The Bergh Piano company is also giving demonstrations of Edison's new invention for the re-creation of sound.

BOOM HELPS EXPORTERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—American exporters are profiting from a war "boom" at the Russian port of Archangel, according to a report today of Henry D. Baker, American commercial attaché at Petrograd. Freight forwarding facilities there, however, cause cotton and other American products, although paid for by Russians, to deteriorate lying in the docks. Baker urges American cotton shippers to co-operate with Russian importers to secure better facilities and thus enable purchase of more American cotton.

Tone

That's where the Victrola
is pre-eminent

The Victrola brings to you the pure and varied tones of every musical instrument, and the beauty and individuality of every human voice—all absolutely true to life.

Such fidelity of tone was unknown before the advent of the Victrola—the first cabinet style talking-machine; and this pure and life-like tone is exclusively a Victrola feature.

"Why exclusive of the Victrola?"

Because of the patented Victrola features, which have been perfected after years of study and experiment:

"Goose-neck" sound-box tube—the flexible metal connection between the sound-box and tapering tone arm, which enables the Victor Needle to follow the record grooves with unerring accuracy.

Concealed sounding-boards and amplifying compartment of wood—provide the very limit of area of vibrating surface and sound amplifying compartment, so absolutely essential to an exact and pure tone reproduction.

Modifying doors—may be opened wide thereby giving the tone in its fullest volume; or doors may be set at any degree graduating the volume of tone to exactly suit every requirement. Closed tight the volume is reduced to the minimum and when not in use the interior is fully protected.

Victor system of changeable needles—a perfect reproduction is possible only with a perfect point—therefore a new needle for each record is the only positive assurance of a perfect point. You also have your choice of full tone, half tone or further modification with the fibre needle.

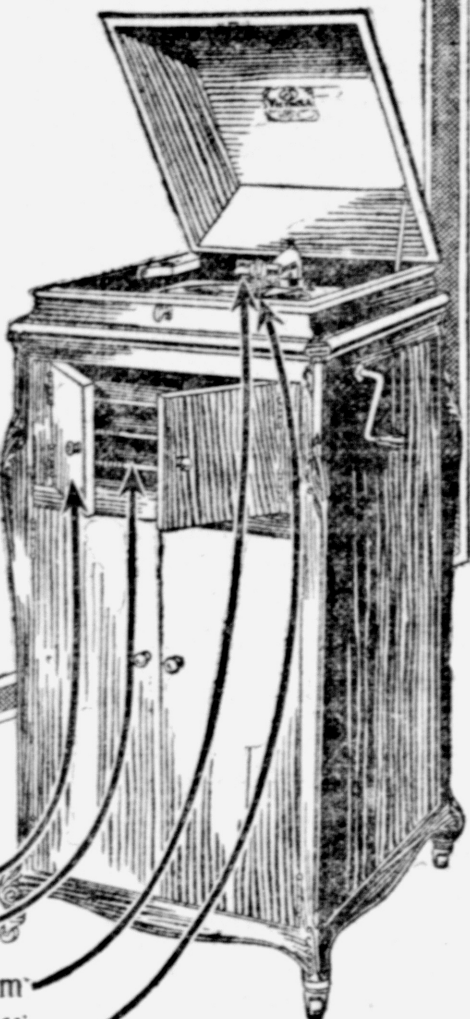

It is the perfection of every part, and its perfect combination with all other parts, that gives the Victrola its superior tone—that makes the Victrola the greatest of all musical instruments.

There are Victrolas in great variety from $15 to $250. Come in any time and we will gladly demonstrate them and play any music you wish to hear. We'll explain our system of easy terms, too.

PRISON MISSIONARY REPEAS RECORD OF HIS CAREER

sides of me. They took me right to the jail door and they shoved me in. The last man in the line had two guns slung on his belt. When he slammed the door behind me he only had one. I had the other.

"The dicks left me alone for several hours. I hadn't chewed for days—and den the turnkey come in. 'Whad'ya want?' he asked. 'Slip me a poulitice,' I says, 'me backbone's playing a game of tag wit' me ribs. I ordered a real feed and traded de sheriff's gun fer it.

"It was six weeks after de earthquake dat they took me up before de judge. Dey was bags of gold laying all around de court room. I never saw so much money in me life.

"My eyes was glued on the coin all the time the judge was talking to me. There was half a hundred harness bulls, unharness bulls, sheriffs, undersheriffs and policemen all around me. The judge and the rest of the court didn't seem to know what was just the right thing to do wit' me, and so the judge told me to get out of town in twenty-four hours. As he said them words—I can remember them now—twenty-four hours—I grab one of the bags of gold. And he didn't see me do it either. Wit' my left hand holding on tight to the bundle of coin in my left coat pocket, I raised my other mitt and told the judge all I needed was twenty-four minutes. The bag of gold had $85 dollars in it.

"I was arrested down in Alabama. They throwed me in a jail what wasn't fit for a dirty dog. But before they got me in there I had one deputy sheriff by the throat so hard they had to use a crowbar to pry my hand loose. Two of my ribs were busted. One of my eyes was closed for repairs. One of my arms was cracked, and then they threw me in a jail and didn't take the handcuffs off for five days.

Honor Among Thieves

"Then another dick got to me in Thompson, Tenn. But I saw him first, and he almost got me, but he didn't quite. I met his gun with a big hickory sap. Me pal found me then. I was all busted up. I had just made me get-away from de Alabama jail and I was in a frightful condition. I asked him to congregate the gang and take me back to Thompson to get the dick who had tried to get me. But he kept me and took care of me. And I want to tell you guys right here that the old story about honor among thieves is true. It's true.

"My pal fixed me up but I needed some money. And I always had a knack of runnin' into it when I needed it. I separated a guy on the street from a big roll. It wasn't my fault though, it was his. He was countin' it over in a barber shop. When your home is robbed one of these nights, don't blame it on the robber, but blame it on the feller who sits in the street car and tells about his wife's jewels.

"And friends—that's a picture of me as I landed in New York City—broken in body and sinful to the last degree. I was sittin' on a bench in the Bowery. An old guy came up to me. 'Come on up to the mission.' 'Go on wid yer mission,' I answered him, 'or I'll kick your shins.' But within ten minutes something or other steered me to that mission.

"There was a little feller once—just an ordinary little boy. His mother painted him a wonderful picture of the Christ upon the cross. D'ye get me—you guys here tonight?

"I stood by young Spencer in the penitentiary where he was electrocuted. He was twenty-four years old. It was just a few weeks ago. And bless God, that boy never committed any of those crimes they said he did, either. He told me so before his God.

"But let me take you guys back a few years.

"There was another boy. His mother asked him to go to church. He rebelled. He asked her never to make that request again. He decided to go to the city. She put a Bible in his hands and he took it—just so as not to hurt her feelin's.

"For six months it was all right. Then he wandered into a pool room. Somebody rolled him a pill. Then somebody borrowed a nickel from him. Then another feller asked him to go to the red light district with him. The stuff was off. He asked his employer to get off early one afternoon and he went home. As he went up the steps he met his pal coming down from his wife's room. He shot his pal.

"I walked to the death chamber with him. There were the ghastly straps—the horrible metal cap—the foot straps and all the revolting fixings. They marched that little boy up the aisle. He got within sight of the chair and then he stopped. He was just eight feet away. Yes, he stopped—and he called to his God—to his Christ for help. His cries awoke the huge penitentiary to life. He spoke the name of Jesus and asked Him to help him. He was only eight feet from death.

"But it was too late. The time for him to have prayed was two years back.

"And you guys—you guys out there in the house—it's goin' to be too late for you some day."

At the morning session the superintendents of missions and mission workers in general discussed questions of relief work in connection with the regular mission work. The discussion was led by Frank Ward, Jr., assistant superintendent of the Sunshine Mission at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who delivered an able address on the subject. Mission work in the smaller cities came in for a thorough discussion, following the presentation of the subject by Frank Lawler, superintendent of the City Mission at Galesburg, Ill. The discussion centered about the work accomplished in the smaller cities in the past, and plans to increase the efficiency of the mission work in the smaller cities.

SERBIANS EXTEND SELVES TO LIMIT TO REPEL INVASION

Teutons on North and Bulgars on East Keep the Nation in Hot Water

THEY GIVE GROUND GRADUALLY

Serbs Admit They Have Gone Back but Only After Big Loss to Attackers

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The Serbians were putting out their last ounce of strength today to delay the Austro-German drive from the northward toward Constantinople and to repulse the Bulgarian invasion from the east.

Dispatches referred to the presence of aged men, of many women and children on the Serb fighting lines.

These lines were giving ground under Teutonic pressure, but only bit by bit. Every foot of the invaders' progress was being resisted. The broken country favored the Serbs. They were admittedly losing heavily, but the German and Austrian losses were declared to be proportionately far heavier.

Accounts conflicted as to developments in the Serb-Bulgarian campaign. The Serbian version was that the Bulgarians had been beaten back at most points, especially in the Vranja region, where the invaders were trying to cut out the Salonika-Nish railroad. The Bulgarian story was that an advance was being pushed everywhere. Occupation of the Vranja district and extensive progress in northeastern Serbia were specifically mentioned in Sofia official reports.

The allies' chief worry lest the Bulgarian attack cripple the Serbs in holding back the Austro-German drive. From Strumitza, the southwestern Bulgarian town already in Franco-British hands, it was expected an allied force would be pushed northward, threatening Sofia, the capital, so as to distract the Bulgars from their westward advance.

The allies' strongest hope was that the Serbians might succeed in delaying the Austro-Germans long enough to give the British and French, and the Italians also, it was thought possible, a free hand in operations against Constantinople.

The belief was growing that the allied plan was to strike eastward from Enos against the Turkish capital. For this movement there are railroad facilities and while Turkish opposition is looked for, it was thought scarcity of ammunition would render this comparatively ineffective.

Capture of a long list of obscure villages a few miles inside the eastern and northeastern Serbian frontier was claimed today in an official Bulgarian report received from Sofia via Vienna and Berlin. The Morava valley, it was asserted, had been occupied by the Bulgars in the Vranja region. All along their line, said the report, the Bulgarians are advancing.

Athens Reports Big Battle

ATHENS, Oct. 19.—A bloody battle between Serbians and Bulgarians still raged today along the ten mile north and south line between the Serbian towns of Vranja and Ristovatz.

The line is about thirty-five miles within the Serb-Bulgarian frontier, along the Salonika-Nish railroad. The struggle is for possession of this line, which the Bulgars seek to cut, as a means of delaying the allies' northward advance to the Serbians' aid.

ness meeting to be held this afternoon following the address by Mr. W. F. Williams, the "Sky Pilot" of Northern Michigan, on "Experiences Among the Woodsmen of Northern Michigan." The officers elected this afternoon will head the Central Western district of the International union for the coming year.

William G. Trell has been making a comfortable living for several years, police said today, by begging railroad fare from tender-hearted housewives. His livelihood brought him to grief here yesterday when he ran into a woman upon whom he had successfully operated four years ago in Iowa. She recognized him and his methods and called the police. Since Trell's arrest police have found half a dozen other women who have been his victims within the last few days.

In addition to the comfortable living the police say his operations have netted, Trell has sent $150 to a woman in Chicago during the last few months, according to money order receipts found in his pockets.

Trell's game is to present himself at the kitchen door and relate a sorrowful tale of hard luck, ending with a plea for railroad fare to take him to a nearby city, in which he claims to have a home.

When arrested by the police, Trell gave the name of Lesslie Laverne, but he later admitted that it was an alias.

Have an Apple! This is Apple Day

"Have an apple."

Today is "Apple Day," and as such is being celebrated in cities all over the country. In La Crosse, produce dealers and grocers are displaying apples of all kinds and boosting their sale in accordance with the national slogan of the day:

"Health's best way—eat apples every day."

The International Apple Shippers' association is offering two silver cups this year for the best celebration of the day, one to go to the winner among cities having a population of 500,000 or over, the other to the winner with a population less than 500,000. Rules governing the contest are simple. Each local chairman of the publicity committee has the celebration in his city in charge, and after the day is over, must file with Secretary R. G. Phillips, of Rochester, a report of the celebration, with such exhibits, clippings and photographs as he desires. These reports will be passed on by judges appointed by the president of the association, and awards made. All cities in which a member of the association resides is entitled to enter in competition for the cups, whether represented on the publicity committee or not.

GUND BREWING CO. PAYS $13,000 IN TAX ON ITS INCOME

Report Shows That Brewery Is Largest Contributor of Local Corporations Taxed by State

The John Gund Brewing company paid a corporation income tax of $13,798.37 last year. The amount is the largest which the local concern has ever contributed to the coffers of the state and is the largest sum of money paid by a single corporation here. The figures were made public in a report received by County Clerk Bert A. Jolivet today.

While the figures on the total amount of corporation tax will not be available for a few days, it is believed that the total sum will exceed any year in the past. The report points to a successful business year.

Next to the Gund company's tax was that of the G. Hellemann Brewing company, with a tax of $8,306.20. The C. and J. Michel Brewing company contributed $1,893.56 to the tax fund.

Following are the amounts paid by other large firms:

Sisson-Selestad-Hougan company, $2,911.52; C. L. Colman Lumber company, $1,687.92; A. M. Castle Engineering company, $3,197.96; La Crosse Rubber Mills company, $2,795.18; Listman Mill company, $1,615.82; John Salzer Seed company, $1,675.94; Standard Oil company, $1,310.21.

WOLGAST CITED TO APPEAR NOVEMBER 8

Kannia to Be Asked to Produce Missing Telegram at Hearing of His Charges Before Board

Ad Wolgast has been cited to appear before the State Boxing commission on Nov. 8 and answer charges filed by the Kannia Athletic club of La Crosse, growing out of the boxer's failure to appear here and fulfill his contract to box Friday, Oct. 15. Manager Kannia filed charges under date of Oct. 16.

The charges submit that Wolgast's excuse, that he failed to appear because he missed a train at Cadillac, Mich., which afforded his last opportunity to secure a Chicago connection for La Crosse, is false, that he had ample time to make his trains.

The charges, to which are attached telegrams purported to show that Wolgast could have made the trip, intimate that the boxer deliberately neglected the match in order to watch one of his horses in a race at Marion, Mich.

Early Friday Manager Kannia authorized the publication of a statement that Wolgast arrived on a 10:30 train that morning. He permitted the publication of this statement, although Wolgast had not arrived at 3:30, press time.

Walter Lignier, chairman of the boxing commission, said today that the telegram which would show how early in the day Kannia knew Wolgast was not coming, was the only one not filed with the commission. He said that Manager Kannia would be asked to produce this telegram, which the latter had said was withheld because it went to Appleton instead of La Crosse, and was not repeated here until late in the day.

On his arrival in La Crosse Chairman Lignier caused a notice that Wolgast would not appear to be posted at the ticket office of the Kannia club, and instructed the management to refund money on all tickets the holders of which so desired.

AGED WOMAN LONG RESIDENT OF CITY CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Jensen, a resident of La Crosse for the past nineteen years, died at 9:40 o'clock last night at the residence, 1514 Jackson street, of the infirmities of old age. She had been confined to her bed for the past week. She was 70 years of age.

Mrs. Jensen was born December 31, 1835, in Canton, Berne, Switzerland, and came to this country, where she and her husband settled on a farm in Bostwick Valley. Mr. Jensen died twenty-three years ago. Six years after the death of her husband, Mrs. Jensen removed to La Crosse where she has made her home ever since.

She has survived by two sons and two daughters, John and Jacob Jensen of La Crosse, Mrs. Katherine Miller of this city, and Mrs. John Hingen of Mormon Coulee.

Funeral services will be held from the residence, 1514 Jackson street, at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, and from the German Lutheran church in Bostwick Valley at 2 o'clock. Burial will be made in the Lutheran cemetery in Bostwick Valley. Rev. J. T. Gamm of this city will officiate.

BODY COMES FROM WEST

The body of the late Mrs. Robert C. Wallace, who died at her home in Seattle June 24, of diabetes, was brought to La Crosse this afternoon. Burial was made in the Catholic cemetery immediately following the arrival of the body.

Mrs. Wallace was formerly Miss Mary Ryder of this city, and for a number of years proprietor of the Ryder house at Fifth and King streets. Later she married Mr. Wallace and the couple moved to Seattle seven years ago.

Mrs. A. C. Meister, a sister of Mrs. Wallace, arrived with the body.

TEACHERS POSTPONE MEET

Convention Date Changed to February at Meeting of Executive Council in this City

The annual convention of the Western Wisconsin Teachers' association, which was to have been held on the 28th and 29th of this month, has been postponed to February 11, 12, 1916. The executive committee of the association met in a local hotel Saturday and took this action in view of the fact that the field of teachers' conventions in this part of the country is especially crowded this fall. Conventions are to be held at Eau Claire and Stevens Point at about the same time that it was planned to have the western Wisconsin teachers congregate. The executive committee, which decided upon this course consists of President Henry Gardner of Viroqua; Miss Lena Heideman of La Crosse; Mr. Loree of Arcadia, and Prof. A. H. Sanford of the local normal school.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The interstate commerce commission today ruled that carriers are entitled to a thirty-five cent per ton unloading charge on scrap iron, carloads, through Galveston, for export, in addition to the regular shipment rate.
Suspended until April 29 the operation of tariffs naming increased stone rates carloads, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Minnesota transfer, Minnesota, to Des Moines, Iowa.
Suspended until April 28 operation of tariffs naming increased coal rates, carloads, from Wyoming and Colorado mines to interstate Union Pacific railroad points.

The reason Time and Tide wait for no man is because they couldn't do it and maintain a regular schedule.—Toledo Blade.

OPINION DECREASES
POWER OF STATE EDUCATION BOARD

Has No Power to Require University and Stout Regents to Submit Budgets Says Owen

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—That the state board of education is not empowered to require the board of regents of the university and the governing boards of the Stout Training school at Menominee and the Wisconsin Mining school at Platteville to submit, for the approval of the board, budgets and estimates made in behalf of these schools is the conclusion of Attorney General Owen today. Neither, says the opinion, are the boards dependent upon which the authority of the board for expenditures made for the schools.

"This conclusion is not in conflict, but in accord with and fully recognizes the duty and authority of the board of education to require such budgets and estimates to be submitted to it in the aid of its duties to inquire and advise. Neither does it apply to expenditures for new buildings constructed or lands purchased under the provisions of the law."
Although the opinion is limited to the above named institutions, it affects all the state educational branches as well. The phraseology of the law creating the state board of education includes every "educational activity of the state."

North Plot Abandoned by the Athletes for Plows and Scrapers

Captain Strum can no longer lead his men outside of the gym door for practice. Mr. Heinemann has taken his proteges out on the north plot for a sociable game of baseball or soccer for the last time. Visions of a swimming pool, a magnificent gymnasium and similar conveniences transplanted reminiscences of a football field in Normalites' minds yesterday morning when the entire piece of ground north of the school received the first touches of constructive work for the new building. The field was softened by ploughing. Soon shovels and scrapers will be at work and soon after the masons will be on the job.

Theda Bara, famous wherever there is a motion-picture theater, is an intimate acquaintance of Gabriele D'Annunzio, the eccentric and brilliant author of La Gioconda, coming to the Majestic theater Wednesday and Thursday as "The Devil's Daughter," and the creator of the celebrated Cabiria. The actress met the writer when she was leading woman of the Theater Antoine, Paris, the theater of thrills of the French capital. When D'Annunzio sold the picture rights of "The Devil's Daughter" to William Fox he stipulated that Miss Bara must play the title role for, as he expressed it, pictorially. "There is no one else on earth who is half serpent and half woman, like my Gioconda, except Miss Bara." The actress declares she does not know whether to be offended or pleased by this remark of the Italian author's.

POTATOES MAKE GOOD HOG FEED

Department of Agriculture Says Tubers Are Valuable for the Swine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—Potatoes as profitable feed for hogs are receiving attention from agricultural experts. Department of Agriculture experiments indicate that four to four and one-half bushels of cooked potatoes (18 to 20 cents a bushel) will add as much weight to hogs as a bushel of corn (80 cents a bushel).

During surplus production and consequent low prices it may be advantageous for the farmer to feed potatoes to his hogs rather than haul them to market.
Potatoes are fed to best advantage when cooked or steamed and mixed with other feeds. Raw potatoes, fed alone, often cause "scours". On the other hand, in small quantities they add succulence to the diet and may be beneficial to the pigs.

In cooking potatoes for feeding hogs, only enough water should be used to make a meal mash to prevent burning. The meal should also be mixed with corn meal or some other grain. Skimmed milk, tankage, or meat meal probably adds to the usefulness of the feed.
In its campaign against hog cholera, which annually destroys live stock to the value of many millions of dollars, the department of agriculture has issued suggestions to hog owners to aid them avoiding infection. Hog cholera is most prevalent in late summer and fall. These suggestions deserve particular attention now. They are:

1. To keep hog cholera out of the herd:
 1. Locate your hog lots and pastures away from streams and public highways, and do not allow the hogs to run free range.
 2. Do not visit your neighbor or allow him to visit you, if either of you have hog cholera on your premises.
 3. Do not drive into hog lots when returning from market or after driving on public highways.
 4. Do not use hog lots for yarding wagons and farm implements.
 5. Do not place newly purchased stock, stock secured or loaned for breeding purposes, or stock exhibited at county fairs, with your herd. Keep such stock quarantined at least two weeks, and use care to prevent carrying infection from these to other pens in feeding and tending stock.
 6. Burn to ashes or cover with quicklime and bury under four feet of earth all dead animals and the viscera removed from animals at butchering time. They attract the attention of buzzards, dogs, etc., which are liable to carry hog cholera infection.
 7. Confine your dogs and do not keep pigeons unless you confine them.
- If hog cholera appears in your herd:
Treat your hogs immediately with anti-hog-cholera serum, after which they should be kept on a light diet and pure drinking water and confined to limited quarters that may be cleaned daily and sprayed three times a week with one pound of compound cresol solution to thirty parts of water until the disease has abated in the herd. To obtain the best results the serum must be administered before the disease has progressed in the herd.
To rid the premises of infection: Remove all manure and saturate with quicklime.
Burn all litter, rubbish, and old hog troughs.
After the premises are thoroughly cleaned, spray walls, floors, and other surfaces with disinfectant (one part compound cresol solution to thirty parts water.) Where hog houses are small, turn them over, exposing interior to sunlight.
Destroy hogs that do not fully recover, as they may be carriers of cholera infection.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING
SYRUP OF FIGS

Cleanses the little liver and bowels and they get well quick.

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.
If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or is feverish or has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs" to evacuate the bowels no difference what other treatment is given.
Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.
Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

BUGDO HEARING

Man Accused of Billiard Cue Murder Expected to Waive Preliminary Examination

LONE ROCK, Wis., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Max Bugdo, Austrian—American labor who struck Louis Erickson over the head with a billiard cue in Hunter's saloon here, and who is charged with Erickson's murder, will probably be held to circuit court at Richland Center next April.
The man was arraigned in justice court at Richland Center Saturday when District Attorney E. E. Brindley of Richland county consented to an adjournment of the preliminary hearing until Thursday, October 21. It is believed Bugdo will waive examination and await trial in the higher court. He is charged with first degree murder and held without bonds.
May Change Charge
"The charge of first degree murder may be changed to second degree murder or manslaughter," said District Attorney Brindley today.
Brindley said today that Bugdo and Erickson had been playing pool steadily all day. They had been drinking more or less—paying for the drinks with the games—and wagering small sums on the side. Bugdo had been losing and he became sullen and angry. Men who watched them tried in vain to get the men to stop playing.

"One peculiar circumstance connected with the killing of Erickson," said District Attorney Brindley today, "is the fact that there was not a single mark of bruise on Erickson's face or head when he was taken to the Prairie du Chien hospital, where he later died."

In spite of this fact, it is alleged that Bugdo broke the pool cue in the thick section near the butt end when he struck the blow.
Not Arrested at Once
Bugdo has little to say of the matter, and did not protest at his arrest. He was not taken into custody immediately, due to the fact that those in the saloon and Lone Rock authorities did not think Erickson was seriously injured.

Budweiser

Hops

—On hop quality depends beer flavor

Those remarkable qualities of Budweiser and Michelob which distinguish them as being superior to other beers are their deliciously refreshing, never varying taste and exquisite bouquet—due to the exclusive use of the very best Saaz (Bohemian) Hops.

And there's no danger of our supply of these vitally important hops failing.

For years it has been an established rule to keep on hand a two-year in advance supply.

During the summer of 1914 our president, while on his annual hop buying trip abroad, selected and purchased 775,000 pounds (1550 bales) of the choicest Saaz Hops—and was fortunate in having them shipped to this country before the embargo was rigidly enforced in March, this year. Add this to the 500,000 pounds on hand and you'll see how secure is our position.

This foresight enables us to give to our millions of friends exactly the same beer, flavored with exactly the same hops that have helped to make Budweiser quality and Michelob goodness known and liked the world over. Our supply is sufficient to last at least until the closing days of 1917.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL AT NORMAL STARTS

Miss Lenora Thompson of the normal faculty promises great things for girls' basketball in that institution this season. Miss Thompson has been extremely active of late in getting the girls together to elect their managers, and most of the various courses have complied with the instructor's wishes. It is planned to have about twelve teams in all, most of the courses being allowed two teams, a junior and a senior. One or two of the courses will be represented by only one quintet because of the scarcity of material. Practice periods have already been arranged and the regular schedule will begin about the first week in November. The final schedule has not been completed.

Following are the managers of the class teams: Physical ed juniors, Nelson; physical ed seniors, Mackmiller; country school juniors, Beckwith; country school seniors, Hyde; college course, Shirley; primary course juniors, Merrill; primary course seniors, Keizer; state graded school juniors, Spaulding; state graded school seniors, Hubbard; minimum requirement, Brooks.

MORAN AND COFFEY HAVE VISIONS OF CROWN OF HEAVIES

Madison Square Garden the Scene of Scrap Which May Decide Willard's Rival

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES (United Press Staff Correspondent.) NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Frank Moran of Pittsburgh and Jim Coffey of Dublin, both of whom have a yearning for the crown which Jess Willard took away from Jack Johnson, will meet tonight in Madison Square Garden before probably one of the largest crowds that ever jammed the historic garden to see a ring battle.

Interest in the mix already is running skyward. Coffey has a tremendous following in New York, and Moran, while he has not such a big personal drawing card, has a record which looks good on paper. The winner has the understanding that he will get a chance at Willard if his margin of victory is broad enough.

The battle promises to be a real one. Moran has been on Willard's trail ever since Big Jess won the title. So has Coffey. Each realizes that the other must be eliminated before he can possibly hope to climb the championship road.

Coffey has all the edge on cleverness—a large part of which he picked up by staying twenty rounds with Jack Johnson in Paris last summer. Moran probably will go in the ring weighing around 203; Coffey 220.

Tonight's affair would be the first battle Moran has had in this country for two years, when he knocked out Palmer.

Betting is comparatively light, but favors Moran to win.

Umpires are hired to umpire games, and then get abused for umpiring. Nobody loves an umpire.

NORMAL MUST WIN FROM SUPERIOR TO REMAIN IN RACE

Sput Not Exactly Optimistic Over Show Against the Husky Team of the North

Whether or not La Crosse Normal school will have a chance for the state normal school football title, it is conceded, depends on the outcome of the game Saturday with Superior at Superior, when Coach Sputh leads his men into the north for the first game away from home. The game will be an elimination affair, the victors to stay in line for the title. Despite the fact that his men have run up a total of 99 points in two games and have had but six points scored off them, Sputh is not counting too strongly on victory over the Superiors. The northern squad, it is understood, is a husky one, in far better trim than the team sent down here last year to be defeated 40 to 0.

Twenty men compose the Superior regular squad, every man appearing capable of doing much damage to the best aggregation in the country. Dr. David H. August, who was captain of the eleven in the rosy period of its history, is coaching the team and thus far has met with success.

Stiff and sore from the hard tussle with St. Mary's team last Saturday, Sputh had his men out last night and today in preparation for the Superior game. The St. Mary's game, although won by the locals, was not entirely satisfactory to the coach. In the passing line, the men showed greenness, as many as half a dozen aerial throws going wrong. Strum sent them perfectly but there were none up the field to get them. One pass was intercepted by Winona for a touchdown, when a completion of it would undoubtedly have meant a score for the normal.

The same lineup which went against the Winonians will probably oppose Superior. Not a man was injured Saturday.

SECONDS VICTORS IN HARD TUSSLE

Coach Ernst's Men Fight Hard and Nearly Overwhelm the Varsity Team

In one of the hottest contested games seen this year, the "varsity" finally downed the high thirds last night, 19 to 14. The thirds' time of scrimmage did not total thirty minutes all last week and in spare time Coach Ernst drilled them with some trick pass formations, with almost disastrous results to the seconds. Inside of seven minutes after play began, "Speedy Zuck" Reid and Lilly got away with passes from Burroughs for touchdowns. Burroughs kicked both goals.

Both teams fought grimly after this, the thirds being unable to score and the seconds counting once in the last three quarters, straight football working as the last resort. "Dad" Swennes made two touchdowns and kicked one goal. Scotch Captain "Heb" Regat being responsible for the other count. The lineups:

Seconds—Evans, Nyhus, le; Nelson, Kevin, le; King, le; Nelson, C.; Schick, rg.; Casperson, rt.; H. Regat, re.; O. Rippe, q.; Jenks, rrb.; Dickens, lb.; Swennes, lbh. BARNSTORMERS ARE READY TO LEAVE ON BASEBALL JUNKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—American and National league baseball tourists are mobilizing their forces today in preparation for tomorrow's get-away.

Two of Frank Bancroft's National squad have reported. They are Grover Alexander and Johnny Evers. Five of Manager Hoblitzel's American leaguers who are here are Bobby Ruth, Edward Kieffer, Amos Strunk, Wallie Schang and Clarence Walker.

A hitch in the barn-storming schedule developed today. Federal Umpire Bill Brennan was selected as the arbiter for the game to be played at St. Paul Thursday and the O. R. players have announced they won't play if Bill umpires.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Bethlehem Steel common stock this afternoon sold at an even $500 a share, having advanced just $470 since the war started.

Other steel shares were strong on the stock exchange. Bull factors were: Wide discussion of Balkan war news, steel merger talk and the government defense plans. United States Steel at 86 1/2, the highest price in several years.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Bethlehem Steel opened at 499 on the Stock exchange today, making an overnight gain of six points to a new record high.

United States Steel opened at 86 1/2 and 86, both figures being high marks for several years. Studebaker was up 1 1/2 at 168 1/2. New Haven gained a half to 85 1/2, while Baldwin Locomotive lost 1 1/2 to 130 1/2.

Trading, which was active early in the day slackened around 11 o'clock and prices eased off slightly.

Steel made a high of 86 1/2. Studebaker advanced 2 1/2 to 169 1/2 and Willys-Overland was up 2 1/2 at 259.

The market turned strong again in the early afternoon, several new records being set. Bethlehem Steel sold at 500, American Steel foundry was quoted at 73 1/2, up 3 1/2 and Industrial Alcohol made a new high record price at 110. United States Steel was quoted at 86 1/2 at one o'clock; American Locomotive at 71 1/2.

U. S. Steel advanced to 86 1/2 in mid-afternoon, the highest since 1910 when it sold at 91. A high record of 94 1/2 was made in 1909.

New York Air Brake advanced 6 to 153, Industrial Alcohol sold up 5 1/2 to 112, a record high.

After United States Steel had advanced to 87 1/2 in the late afternoon the market was raided, selling pressure on Steel being heaviest. The little fellows got another shake-down when prices slumped. Steel steadied around 86.

The market closed irregular.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—Excellent weather conditions and further heavy rains in the northwest stimulated selling today and wheat prices for a time were lower. Opening prices were 106 and 106 1/2, represented over night recessions of 1/2 and 3/4c. Later there was considerable buying on the dip and prices advanced 5/8c to 1 1/2c above opening.

Fine weather and the wheat weakness caused lower corn prices. At the opening there were recessions of 1/2c and 3/4c. Later, December dropped back 3/4c below opening, while May advanced one cent.

Oats showed little change, the trend being toward lower levels. Provisions were lower on little demand.

SALEM WOMAN GOES TO BIG GATHERING IN EASTERN STATE

Mrs. Lillian Porter Will Join Husband and Attend Council of Congregational Churches

WEST SALEM, Wis., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Mrs. Lillian Porter left on Monday for New Haven, Conn., where she will join Prof. Porter. They will attend the meeting of the National Council of Congregational churches, which includes the American board, the oldest missionary society in the country. Prof. and Mrs. Porter are missionaries of this board in Tung Cho, China, and are home on a furlough. Prof. Porter will study this winter at Columbia college at New York, as he finds it necessary to get new and fresh intelligence to keep up with the trend of thought in the new China which has burst forth out of the old empire.

Local and Personal

There were no services in Christ Lutheran church, but several of the members attended the mission fest at Bangor.

Usual services at the Federated church in the morning. Mr. McKee preached a special sermon to the Christian Endeavorers in the evening.

Rev. Otterson of the La Crosse Valley Lutheran church preached at Mindoro Sunday.

MEXICAN BANDITS WRECK TRAIN AND TWO ARE KILLED

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 19.—Sixty Mexicans, most of them dressed in the uniform of Carranza soldiers, wrecked and "shot up" a south-bound passenger train on the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico railroad last night, killing two Americans and wounding four others. They escaped after robbing the passengers and looting the baggage car. Four companies of infantry and two troops of cavalry have been sent to the scene.

The dead men are H. H. Kendall, the engineer, and a United States cavalryman, whose identity had not been learned early today. Dr. E. S. McCain, county physician, was shot through the abdomen and will die. Harry Wallis and P. E. Horan, the conductor, were also wounded.

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 19.—President Wilson today granted a pardon to Cameron Spear of New York, former head of the Collins Wireless Telephone company, who is serving a five-year sentence in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for criminal conspiracy and using the mails to defraud.

TOMSYNA CARLYLE TO FINISH COURSE IN HOME COLLEGE

Tomsyna Carlyle has not abandoned her college education because she can see.

The story that restoration of her sight after a life of blindness had so complicated her school work as to render its completion difficult if not for the present impossible, is denied by Mrs. Charles Rawlinson, 805 South Seventeenth street.

Mrs. Rawlinson returned last night from Janesville, Wisconsin, where her sister has just accepted a position in the state school for the blind. Tomsyna Carlyle, a graduate of the school, had always desired to teach the blind, but state law prohibited the employment of blind teachers. With the restoration of her sight, which in one eye is perfect, Miss Carlyle hastened to seize the opportunity so long denied her—the opportunity to teach others with whom she had shared a great affliction.

"My sister will now complete her studies in the University of Wisconsin, where she began her college course before returning to California," said Mrs. Rawlinson.

In every small town there is at least one family that imagines it is proving the blueness of its blood by living all by itself.—Albany Journal.

Made from the roots and herbs of the field, it is a simple remedy in which suffering women may place perfect confidence. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

NOVICE DEBATERS WEIRDLY BRANDED AT INITIATION

There was an audible gasp when initiates of the Eclectic Debating society appeared in normal class rooms today following their induction into the organization last night. The Eclecticians carried out their promise to go the Forum, girls' society, one better, it was unanimously agreed as the students looked over the candidates.

Last week the Forum initiates appeared today with large red spots painted on them. Eclectic society novices went to classes today with big letter E's branded indelibly on their foreheads with concentrated iodine. Most of the men admitted a noticeable burning sensation.

Although nothing more than peanuts and apples were served at last night's meeting, the branded members displayed signs of a Bacchanalian festival in red noses. There, too, the iodine has been applied, and must remain until nature sees fit to replace the skin with some more attractive.

One or two of the victims were urged today to visit the ton-sors, for the scissors had been wielded and certain pates displayed signs of becoming bald.

TAGGART NOT TO STAND TRIAL IN CONSPIRACY CASE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 19.—Thomas Taggart, democratic national committeeman, will not have to stand trial on the charge of conspiring to corrupt the 1914 elections of Marion county. The case against him was dismissed today in criminal court on the motion of the state, for the reason that conclusive evidence against Taggart is lacking, said Prosecutor Rucker.

Taggart was indicted with Mayor Joseph E. Bell, Chief of Police Perrott and 125 others. Mayor Bell recently was acquitted by a jury. Other cases pending were continued to December 1.

When asked for a continuance, Judge Eichhorn said: "There seems to be several cases in which the same action as that just taken by the state should be taken, and it seems wise to give the state time to look over its evidence before proceeding."
